Report: Overdose deaths drop

by Tony Fyffe
BSN MANAGING EDITOR

FRANKFORT — Drug overdose deaths decreased in the Big Sandy region in 2012, according to a report released Friday.

The "2012 Overdose Fatality Report" issued by the Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy shows that overdose deaths dropped in the Big Sandy area from 70 in 2011 to 33 in 2012.

The number of overdose deaths in 2012 declined in Johnson, Floyd and Martin counties and remained the same in Lawrence County, the report says.

Lawrence County had six overdose deaths in 2012 and the same number in 2011. Its rate of such deaths per 100,000 population for both years was 38, according to the report.

Johnson County reported eight overdose deaths last year, down from 19 in 2011, the report shows. The county's rate per 100,000 population for the two years was 58.

Floyd County had 14 overdose deaths in 2012; it had 37 in 2011, the report says. The county's rate per 100,000 population was 65.

Floyd County had the largest decrease in Kentucky, the report says. Johnson County's drop was also considered significant in the report.

Five overdose deaths were reported in Martin County in 2012, compared to eight in 2011. The county's rate per 100,000 population was 51.

Kentucky had a total of 1,004 overdose deaths in 2012, down from 1,023 in 2011. State

INEZ — With school scheduled to begin Aug. 7, the Martin County Board of Education has scheduled a special meeting for Thursday, Aug. 1, at 6 p.m. to discuss the possible closure of Sheldon Clark High School due to safety concerns.

The location of the meeting was uncertain at press time Tuesday due to an anticipated large crowd.

New Superintendent Steven C. Meadows sent out a letter to school personnel regarding safety concerns at SCHS.

"Engineers from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet have determined that the blasting contractor is taking the necessary precautions to ensure the safety of all involved," Meadows said. "The Martin County BOE has taken further steps to ensure safety by having our own architect provide an assessment. It is this assessment that has caused much alarm about the safety of Sheldon Clark High School. I must emphasize, most of the details in the report relate current safety issues directly to the original design and construction of the building and not necessarily due to the nearby construction blasting activity."

Apparently Brown & Kubican Structural Engineers of Lexington conducted a first inspection and then came back to revisit and check for Local educator gets Teacher of Year honor

INEZ — Betty Hunt, business and marketing teacher at Martin County Area Technology Center, was awarded 2013 Kentucky Career and Technical Teacher of the Year July 15 at the opening session of the Career and Technical Education Conference at the Galt House in Louisville.

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation sponsors the annual Career and Technical Education Awards, which seek to recognize individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to the field, programs that exemplify the highest standards, and organizations that have conducted activities to promote and expand Career and Technical Education programs.

Any student who has been a part of Hunt's business classes has experienced "the passion she models as a teacher, Martin County ATC principal Martha Williams said.

"I feel there could be no more worthy a candidate for Teacher of the Year than Betty Hunt," Williams said. "Her overwhelming dedication leads her to work long hours of uncompensated time to ascertain her students have the best instruction she throughout the library for people to review.

Johnson said that Tom Kerns would be buying rights of way on the new section of the project in the area of Poplar Fork, which is located in Beauty.

Johnson also said that the next section over the mountain was scheduled for 2015. He also said that an interchange previously included that would take the road to Rt. 52 in West Virginia was on the back burner, but something that could be done later and that they would take the last section in to Warfield.

"There will be a ramp off in the area of the Gospel Light Church, and that will take it into Warfield tying into Route 292," Johnson said. "For now, we are putting the interchange to Route 52 on the back burner and sticking to the construction of the four-lane from Inez to Warfield, which should take about six years."

An estimated $100 million will be saved based on calculations in the overall project, due to some of the changes being made, cutting the cost of the entire project nearly in half.

Some of the changes are to the grade of the road.

Johnson said more than $15 million will be saved by changing the median along the roadway from one that is dug into the highway to one that is possible to drive over. He also said money will be saved by opting to put the interchange to Rt. 52, on the back burner for now.

Some people in attendance who reviewed maps showed concern about the areas because of flooding problems that could potentially block the road. Others thought it was a bad idea to put an off ramp by the Gospel Light Church instead of another road that is approximately a mile or a mile and a half before the church.

Johnson also said there is another project to build a larger bridge at the intersection of Rt. 2031 and Rt. 40 to accommodate anticipated heavier traffic in the area.

For those who were concerned about flooding and the location of the off ramps, Johnson advised them to fill out comment forms, which will be sent to state transportation officials in Frankfort.

Other state highway department officials and the project's consulting engineers were also present to talk one on one with people in attendance.

Other officials attending the meeting were state Rep. Hubert Collins, Martin County Judge-Executive Kelly Callahan, District 5 Magistrate Victor Slone, Warfield Mayor Ronald Workman, former Circuit Court Clerk Carolyn Horn and Big Sandy Regional Detention Center administrator Franklin "Pete" Fitzpatrick.

MARCUM: Hearing set fugitive from justice warrant from Ohio.

Marcum is also facing new charges in Lawrence County regarding the theft of a lawnmower as well as possible fleeing and evading charges.

In Martin County, deputy Wes Horn charged Marcum with first- and second-degree fleeing or evading police, first in an automobile and then on foot; reckless driving; disregarding a traffic light; leaving the scene of an accident-failure to render aid or assistance; first-degree assault; three counts of wanton endangerment; driving without a license/negligence in an accident; and operating on a suspended or revoked operator's license.

On Monday, July 22, Marcum and a passenger, Amanda Burchett, led authorities on a multi-county chase resulting in the injury of a 5-year-old boy and damages to a police cruiser, a pickup truck and multiple wanton endangerment offenses as well as fleeing the scene of an accident without rendering aid and fleeing and evading police.

Wheeler explained shortly after the incident that the Lawrence County Sheriff's Office received a call from a property owner who said that they had seen someone on camera stealing their lawnmower. Lawrence County Sheriff Garrett Roberts spotted the vehicle and pulled it over, then spoke with the driver and passenger. But when Roberts asked Marcum to step out of the vehicle, he started the vehicle back up and took off.

"It was pouring the rain, and after a few minutes, Garrett called off the chase," Wheeler said. "It was a push mower, worth maybe $100. I think there was some other items, like maybe a gas can and a weedeater, but we don't know for sure until the owner comes and tells us."

The chase picked back up in Martin County after Horn, the Martin County deputy, spotted a vehicle on Rt. 645 near the intersection with Rt. 40 with a lawnmower sticking out the back.

"I attempted to do a traffic stop but they fled and were doing 105-110 miles an hour. We originally thought it was a Sunfire, but it was an Escort, and they had just bought it. It belonged to the female passenger," Horn said. "They got to the intersection at the end of Rt. 645 and turned left, back toward Inez. They were driving very fast and were passing cars in curves and across double yellow lines. I was scared that they were going to hit someone head-on and kill them."

Inez Police Chief Adam Crum was coming toward the speeding car when Marcum crashed in front of Evans Hardware.

"I was coming around the curve from the other end of town in their direction and when they rounded the curve, a truck that had been making a delivery was there and they were going really fast," Crum said. "They hit their brakes and slid through the parking lot and struck a cruiser in the parking lot as well as a truck owned by Mike Sweeney."

Crum said that he at the time couldn't tell whether the boy had been struck by the vehicle or tossed out of the way to prevent being struck, but Martin County Sheriff Garmon Preece said the seriousness of the injuries discovered after he was taken to the hospital showed that he had to have been hit by the car.

"The driver, Marcum, took off and headed into the hills," Crum said.

Both Crum and Horn reviewed video collected by Evans Hardware security cameras.

Burchett was transported to Three Rivers Medical Center in Louisa for treatment and will face complexity charges, Wheeler said.

The child was being treated at a hospital in Huntington, W.Va., according to Preece, who also said he was "undergoing treatment for serious injuries after being struck by the car."

As of Monday Horn said the boy had suffered a broken pelvis and also had other injuries.

In his criminal complaint, Horn said he learned the day after the event that the child had broken bones, bruises and lacerations to his body that required stitches.

Marcum's license was suspended in 2012.

Marcum is being held in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Johnson County and is scheduled for a preliminary hearing at 11 a.m. in Lawrence County today (Wednesday).

REPORT: Overdose deaths down in region

officials said that was the first decline in such deaths in a decade.

Of the overdose fatalities in 2012, 888 were found to be unintentional, 59 were suicides and 57 remain undetermined, according to the report.

The data was compiled from the Kentucky Medical Examiners Office, the Kentucky Injury Prevention & Research Council, and the Kentucky Office of Vital Statistics. The report was mandated under House Bill 1 from the 2012 special session of the General Assembly.

The report also reveals that overdose deaths attributed to the use of heroin accounted for nearly one-fifth -- 19.56 percent -- of all Kentucky Medical Examiner drug overdose cases in 2012. In 2011, that percentage was 3.22 percent.

Of the overdose deaths autopsied by the Kentucky Medical Examiner's Office in 2012:

- Alprazolam remained the most detected controlled substance in overdose deaths, present in 41.44 percent of all autopsied cases.

- Morphine was next at 32.01 percent, followed by hydrocodone 25.99 percent, Oxycodone 24.21 percent, Heroin at 19.56 percent, and Oxycodone at 17.51 percent. The report notes many of the cases with morphine detected may in fact involve heroin, as morphine is the major pharmaceutical substance detected in the blood after injection of heroin.

- The youngest overdose fatality was 16 years old and the oldest was 72 years old. The average age of an overdose victim was 40, and the majority -- 58 percent -- were male.

House Bill 1 (HB1), signed into law by Gov. Steve Beshear last spring, included mulmultiple elements to prevent the abuse and diversion of prescription drugs and to enhance law enforcement's tools to investigate illegal prescribing practices.

Beshear said in a press release last week, on the bill's first anniversary, that the legislation "provided key tools to drive out illegal pill mills, curb doctor shopping and decrease unnecessary prescribing."

"The impact of this bill can't be measured just in the numbers of pills we've kept off the streets," Beshear said. "This bill, I believe, has literally saved lives in Kentucky."

State Rep. Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg, the bill's sponsor said that "reducing drug abuse is an ever-changing battle, but it's undeniable that House Bill 1 has saved lives as we look back over the last year."

"I'm proud of the results, and the fact that other states are following our lead," Stumbo said. "Our goal now is to build on these gains and to improve access to treatment, so that abusers can truly escape this deadly cycle once and for all."

One of the major components of HB1 is the requirement that pain management facilities be owned by a licensed medical provider. Since the law was passed, 20 non-physician owned pain management facilities have closed. Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) has issued cease and desist letters to another four pain management facilities operating outside the scope of state regulations.

HUNT: Educator gets Teacher of Year honor

can afford them. Her role as a team leader as well as team player in our school and community has opened numerous doors of opportunities students would otherwise not of experienced. I know all our teachers exhibit a high level of dedication; however, I cannot fathom any greater than Betty Hunt."

Sheldon Clark High School principal Dr. Robbie Fletcher said, "You never walk away from Betty Hunt without wearing a smile on your face."

A press release said these statements epitomize what this "gifted, national board-certified teacher is all about: making a positive impact on everyone she comes in contact with, particularly her students."

"In addition to instilling knowledge; she challenges, motivates, encourages and uplifts every student passing through her door," the release said.

Hunt has been the business and marketing teacher at Martin County ATC for eight years. She is a National Board Certified teacher in Career and Technical Education. She was appointed and served on the Governor's Transforming Education in Kentucky Task Force. She is a member of the Future Business Leaders Board of Directors and serves as the teacher/leader and liaison between the area technology center and Sheldon Clark High School. As the liaison, Hunt shares the strategies from these meeting with the ATC staff in order to enhance student success.

The press release said she has been a leader to improve school culture with "a vision of high expectations for staff and students." "She works long hours to be the model of an exemplary teacher, the release said. "As an example of this dedication, she attended a course, at her own expense, to be able to offer an advance placement course in accounting to her students. She is a member of the Early College Program Faculty at Morehead State University. This allows her students to receive college credit for the Introduction to Computers course. Ms. Hunt offers students options for industry certification to meet the requirement for Career Ready. Students can test in Microsoft Office Specialist (MOS) or Internet Core Computing (IC3). The offering of these industry certifications has helped Martin County ATC and Sheldon Clark High School increase the number of students who are College and Career Ready."

Hunt has a "passion to see students succeed," the release said.

"She has made helping struggling students her priority through the use of differentiated instruction," the release said. "She uses technology and a respectful classroom environment to support struggling students."

"Mrs. Hunt's skill set and passion for education has inspired me from the moment I met her," one of Hunt's former students, 2012 SCHS valedictorian Dana Spears, said. "Her patience and high expectations for all her students has helped me be successful . . . only certain types of people can leave that big of an impression in your life. We do not meet many people in life with that kind of power, and I believe that when we do, we should honor them."

SCHS: Meeting is Thursday

more damage since its last report, which was issued April 23, with recommendations for repairs.

The July 22 report is addressed to Kraig Grayson, director of pupil personnel, who apparently accompanied them as they did a visual assessment from the floor.

In their conclusion of the report, the engineers noted that SCHS is approximately 45 years old and lacks the "inherent rigid interconnection and reinforcement required of a modern building; that the masonry walls appear to be vertically unreinforced; the exterior walls do not appear to be rigidly connected to the floor and roof diaphragms and the roof deck is not attached to the roof joists and roof deck floor slabs do not appear to be mechanically tied to the shear walls."

The company also noted the structure doesn't meet the building codes for a modern building.

"We believe that the structure lacks the construction detailing and connections to resist lateral loads from a significant seismic, wind, or blast event. Over its service life to date, the masonry walls have aged, weakened and moved as evidenced by the cracks and gaps between floor slab and wall. Due to the lack of discernible and engineered load path and the building's aged condition, we are unable to predict the strength and overall safety of the building within the scope of this brief investigation and report," the company said. "We feel the building is susceptible to severe cracking during the course of the planned nearby roadway project. We feel that the building should be carefully and frequently monitored to consider any cracking which may occur does not lead to a more severe movement/collapse. We recommend that all significant blasting be performed while no students are in the building and believe the structure has questionable adequacy to resist a significant wind, or seismic event."

Meadows also said in his letter that the Kentucky Department of Education has recommended the district review an implementation of the district's local facility plan and that he has informed the board that they are now reviewing the plan to determine implementation.

Should the board vote to close SCHS, the plan calls for $7,571,736 in renovations to Inez Middle School to become Inez High School.

The facility plan also calls for the elementary schools to serve students up to the sixth grade. In Warfield and Inez Elementary, it would require an additional three classrooms and a cafeteria. At Eden, it would require the construction of three additional SBDM classrooms to accommodate the additional students.

Meadows said in the letter that he will provide a recommendation to the school board on what action must be taken to ensure the message to the community is clear.

"The safety of our children is of paramount concern to the Martin County Board of Education," Meadows said in the letter. "Based on assessments, the building is currently safe to occupy."

Meadows was involved in meetings Tuesday and was unavailable for comment, but Assistant Superintendent Larry James said they are currently working to formulate a plan should the board vote to close the school.

James said that although the facility plan calls for the elementary schools to serve students through sixth grade, they felt that there would be enough room at the schools to leave them at kindergarten through fifth grade as they are currently.

James also said that if SCHS is closed, it would be immediate and that it would also require transportation director Greg Cornett to revisit the bus schedule and to make changes if necessary.

"It would be the students from Sheldon Clark moving to the Inez Middle School, and we think that the school will be OK to accommodate the students without having to do all of the construction in the facility plan," James said. "If they do combine the middle schools, Mr. Haney will be the principal of the school and if they don't, Warfield Middle will need a principal. Right now, I am the interim principal."

James said if the board votes to close SCHS, it will most assuredly take longer than three days to move classroom items and that they are looking at a moving company to see how much it would cost to have it done quickly.

"We still have to get a quote," James said. "Right now, he (Meadows) said we should plan on Aug. 7, being the date school will begin. I guess we will just have to wait until Thursday to see what is going to happen."

School construction on schedule, Samons says

BSN Staff Report

PAINTSVILLE — Paintsville Independent Schools superintendent Coy Samons issued a memo this week to "stakeholders" of the school district concerning the Paintsville Elementary renovation project, which is expected to be completed in late May 2014.

"Although some inconvenience has taken place, the final product will be a redesigned building that should make the community proud and capable of meeting our students' needs in the 21st Century," Samons said in the memo.

Samons said that classes will begin Aug. 21 as scheduled for students in grades one through 12, Aug. 22 for kindergarten and Sept. 3 for Head Start. The After-School Program begins Sept. 9 from 2:45 p.m. to 5 p.m. for kindergarten through fifth grade at the elementary school and for grades six through eight at the high

He also noted that there is a "temporary change in campus and room assignments for some students during the 2013-2014 school year."

Students in kindergarten and first grade will have classes in Building F on the Mayo Campus of Big Sandy Community and Technical College from 8 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Students in grades two through five in the 1987 addition at the elementary school from 8 a.m. to 2:50 p.m., while sixth-grade students will have classes in the Paintsville Junior/Senior High School campus from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There is no change for grades seven through 12, with class times from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Head Start, which will also have classes in Building F on the BSCTC's Mayo Campus, will be in session from 8 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Monday through Thursday, Samons said.

"Procedures for morning drop-off and afternoon pickup have not changed at the Paintsville Elementary School Campus or Paintsville High School," Samons said. "The specific procedures for students at BSCTC/Mayo are still in the development phase and will be forwarded to parents/guardians in the next few weeks."

Samons also announced the following important dates and programs for students and their families: Aug. 1, "Jump Start" at PHS for the sixth grade from 9-11 a.m. and for the seventh grade from 1-3 p.m., and sixth-grade parent meeting at 6 p.m. in the PHS library; Aug. 7-8, Kindergarten University from 10 a.m. to noon at the BSCTC cafeteria/dining hall; and Aug. 21, kindergarten parent meeting at 9 a.m., also in the BSCTC cafeteria/dining hall.

Parents wanting more information can call PES principal Bryan Auxier at 789-2651, PHS principal Chuck McClure at 789-2656 or Samons at 789-2654.

Those we love don't go away,
They walk beside us every day.
Unseen, unheard, but always near,
Still loved, still missed,
and very dear.

It broke our heart to lose you, but you didn't go alone,
A part of us went with you that August day
God called you home.
For in Heaven we know you are with family and friends,

And we all look forward to that day when we see you again.

Love and miss you!!

3 simple steps to create a home media server

by Kim Komando

Kim Komando hosts the nation's largest talk radio show about consumer electronics, computers and the Internet.

Streaming video and audio from the Web is now commonplace. Netflix, iTunes, Hulu, Spotify and other services make it simple to watch or listen to what you want when you want.

You don't even need a computer. Most services have apps for smartphones and tablets. Many newer TVs are Internet enabled, so they can stream online video and audio with no extra gear.

For non-Internet TVs, you can grab an Apple TV or Roku box for $100 or less and plug it in. You might already have a Wii U, Xbox 360 or PlayStation 3. These all include media streaming.

Google's new $35 Chromecast takes a different approach. It plugs in to your TV via HDMI and connects to your Wi-Fi network. You can stream online video from your smartphone or tablet, or the Chrome browser on PC and Mac, right to the TV.

That's all fine for bringing in outside media, but what about media already in your home? You might have a collection of music that isn't on any service. You probably have thousands of photos. Don't forget any home videos or purchased movies you have on your hard drive.

How do you bring these to your TV? You could just connect your computer directly and use the TV like a monitor.

Of course, that doesn't help you stream to mobile gadgets. And you might already have a streaming box plugged in to your TV. Who needs more clutter in your entertainment center?

There's another solution: Set up a home media server.

Don't let the name intimidate you; it's actually not that hard once you know how. And that's what I'm going to tell you.

There are three things you need for this to work.

1. A media server to stream content
2. A fast home network to carry the content
3. Gadgets to receive and display the content

Let's start with the server. A server is just a computer that stores and shares information. Any computer can be a server. You could use your existing home computer or an unused older computer you have sitting around.

If you're just serving photos or audio, you don't need a high-end system. Almost any Windows Vista or 7 machine will do fine. Just make sure the computer's hard drive is large enough to hold everything.

As a side note, I know people still have Windows XP computers at home or sitting in a closet. I wouldn't use that. Most of the software I'm going to talk about won't work as well on it. Plus, Microsoft is dropping support for XP in less than a year. At that point, no one should be running XP.

For streaming video, you'll want a something a bit newer. It should really run Windows 7 and have 4 gigabytes of RAM.

Once you have the hardware, you need software. There are some paid options out there like Pogoplug PC ($30) and PlayOn ($40 a year, $25 a year on sale). These make it simple to stream your media to mobile gadgets and other compatible electronics. Plus, they include plenty of other online media sources.

However, there are free options as well, such as

Garden seed project helps woman reduce grocery bill

DENVER — Deborah O'Bryan hadn't gardened in decades. But once she started working in her vegetable garden this past spring, it was as if she had never stopped.

"It all came back to me," said O'Bryan, 59. "My mom and dad were good teachers."

"My parents always gardened and I worked in it. And I loved it. After I grew up, I moved to Lexington and Columbus, Ohio, where there's not a lot of opportunity to garden. I moved back here in 1980, but I always lived in town until a year and a half ago. That's when we moved into the home place (at Denver)."

After the move, O'Bryan and her husband, Bill, discussed planting a garden.

"We talked about putting out a garden, but he was sick and then he passed away," she said. "So, I didn't fool with it."

In early spring, however, a neighbor told O'Bryan about the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program's Garden Seed Project. The project distributes vouchers for the purchase of seeds, fertilizer, and/or plants to eligible individuals who, in turn, plant gardens that will provide produce for eating and canning.

After O'Bryan was deemed eligible under project guidelines, she used the vouchers to purchase seeds for cucumbers, endive, white half runner beans, cantaloupe, zucchini, squash and sweet peas as well as plants for tomatoes, eggplant and several types of pepper.

She's pleased with the results.

"Everything has come up and is flourishing," she said. "My beans are taller than I am. They're about eight feet tall."

Of course, O'Bryan gets by with a little help from her friends.

"My neighbors come up and help," she said. "Unlike me, they've been gardening for years without an intermission."

Although O'Bryan enjoys gardening, she admits she prefers some aspects of the process more than others.

"My favorite part is the harvest because you get to see the results of your hard work," she said. "My least favorite part is probably canning. All that chopping...that's probably the most difficult part for me."

Nevertheless, O'Bryan has already done her share of canning this season.

"I've canned peppers and tomatoes and made salsa and spaghetti sauce," she said.

"I've frozen peppers, cabbage, sugar snap peas, zucchini and squash, and I plan to can green beans."

Her garden might not con-

Training course offered in Pikeville

PIKEVILLE — East Kentucky residents interested in starting their own business or making their current business more successful should put the Southeast Kentucky Economic Development Corporation (SKED)'s Entrepreneurial SMARTS course on their calendars in September.

The popular training course is being offered in Pikeville, for the second time in as many years, and is designed to give participants the opportunity to learn more about small business ownership and finding their entrepreneurial niche. Hundreds of residents around the region have already completed the training and have gained valuable knowledge and resources about small business startup and operations, SKED officials said.

The four-session, 12-hour SMARTS Pikeville course will be offered on the following dates: Sept. 5, Sept. 12, Sept. 19 and Sept. 26, from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Pike County Cooperative Extension Office, located at 148 Trivette Drive in Pikeville. Cost is $25 per person for all four sessions and includes a training manual and numerous handouts.

A total of 228 aspiring entrepreneurs and small business owners have already completed Entrepreneurial SMARTS training in 16 sessions offered around the region since the program began in early 2012.

SKED conducts the entrepreneurial and small business training program, "Entrepreneurial SMARTS: Simple Methods And Reality-based Training for Success," which is based on a nationally recognized training program called Core Four Business Planning Course. The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has provided funding support for these training sessions.

Entrepreneurial SMARTS training has reached people from all walks of life. Participants have included owners of existing small businesses, folks working to open their own small business in the near future, entrepreneurs seeking some direction on the basics of starting and managing a small business, retirees, college students, employees of nonprofit organizations seeking education and training to more effectively assist their constituents, and people who are unemployed and seeking an alternative to the traditional job market.

The final SMARTS class in 2013 will be offered in Somerset in October. For more specifics and to register, visit SKED's Web site at www.southeastkentucky.com, then click on the training link.

Pat Bradley, SKED small business training specialist, conducts the Entrepreneurial SMARTS classes. Bradley is among more than 200 trainers from over 80 organizations across the country who have been certified as Core Four Business Planning Course instructors. In addition to this and other entrepreneurial training, the East Kentucky native also draws from the first-hand knowledge and experience she gained from starting and operating her own small businesses.

Spears to be honored

FORT GAY, W.Va. — The Fort Gay High School Alumni Association has selected H. Keith Spears, Ed. D., as recipient of its 2013 Distinguished Alumni Award.

Spears, a 1966 graduate of Fort Gay High School, will be honored for his career achievements and public service at the annual alumni banquet in Louisa Aug. 30.

Spears is vice president for graduate and professional studies at Campbellsville University, a Christian liberal arts college based in Campbellsville, with centers in Louisville, Somerset and Hodgenville.

He is an alumnus of Marshall University, Central Michigan University, and West Virginia University. He is also a graduate of Harvard University's MLE Post-doctorate Institute in Lifelong Education and Duke University's Governor's Center for Strategic Leadership.

In 1973, while teaching at Fort Gay High School, he established one of West Virginia's first public radio stations, WFGH-FM. The station is still on the air and is a vital resource to residents of Wayne County, W.Va., and neighboring Lawrence County. He also spent 28 years as a member of the faculty and administration of Marshall University, where he served in a number of positions, including vice president for communications. In this position, he oversaw the development of the award-winning "We Are... Marshall" branding and served as MU's chief consultant when Warner Bros. made the motion picture "We Are Marshall."

Before accepting his current position in 2009, Spears directed a number of endeavors promoting public broadcasting, state museums, libraries and festivals while serving as director for special projects at the West Virginia Department of Education and the Arts.

"Keith is one of many graduates of Fort Gay High School who have distinguished themselves in the workplace and their communities," said Richard Plymale, chairman of the FGHS Alumni Association. "He is a deacon in his church and a devoted husband, father, and grandfather. He and his wife, Rita, are deeply rooted to Fort Gay. He is deserving of this recognition."

The alumni banquet will be held at the First Baptist Church in Louisa and is open to all past graduates of Fort Gay High School and their guests. The 2013 banquet will also honor the graduating class of 1963. Tickets can be purchased in advance by contacting Rita Pelfrey, banquet chairwoman, at r.pelfrey@yahoo.com or by dialing 304 525-5563.

tain her favorite garden food, corn, yet O'Bryan expresses gratitude for the fresh vegetables, for the canned and frozen food that will provide nourishment in the coming months, and for the Garden Seed Project.

"The program is really beneficial to people who don't have large incomes. It's hard to buy groceries and this helps cut down the grocery bill," she said.

O'Bryan also has advice for anyone intimidated by the thought of gardening.

"I work in my garden every day," she said. "It's hard work, but it's worth it in the end because you won't know the outcome unless you start. Gardening gives you a feeling of accomplishment."

STEPS: (Continued from A7)

Orb and Plex. When I say "free," I mean the computer-based streaming software. Additional hardware and apps will cost some money.

For example, Orb has hardware you can plug into your stereo ($79 per unit) and TV ($99 per unit). The Orb software detects these automatically, making streaming simple.

I should point out that Orb is the only service with an easy solution for stereos. So, if that's what you're after, start there.

Orb can stream to other hardware, like a video game console and some streaming gadgets. Orb also has apps for smartphones and tablets. You can watch your media on your home network or on the go.

If you're looking for the most powerful system, however, check out Plex.

You download the Plex Media Center for free and install it on your computer. It works on PC, Mac, Linux and some standalone network attached storage (NAS) units.

Plex organizes your media and streams it wherever you want. It has apps for iOS, Android, Windows 8, Roku, Internet-enabled LG and Samsung TVs, and Google TV. These apps range from free to $5, depending on the gadget. Of course, Plex also streams to newer video game consoles.

Then there's the free myPlex service. This streams your content to a smartphone or tablet on the go. It even streams to an Internet browser on any computer. You can use it to share photos and videos with friends and family. Not a bad deal.

The one drawback to Plex is that it can be a little harder to set up than some other systems. However, every new version makes it easier, and it's free. So, there's no harm in giving it a try.

A media server doesn't work if you can't send the information anywhere. You need a network.

Any wired network set up in the last 10 years is going to be fast enough for streaming media. For wireless, however, you really need an 802.11n router. This has the speed, range and signal strength you need for streaming media.

An older 802.11g router could work if you're only doing a little streaming here and there. However, you might find your network bogging down very quickly.

Then, of course, you need gadgets on the other end to receive and display the media. I mentioned most of them already: mobile gadgets, streaming video gadgets, video game consoles, and so forth.

Given the number of gadgets out there, this can seem overwhelming. How do you know what works and what doesn't?

Start by listing what gear you already own. Then compare it to what each streaming service says is compatible.

When you do this, you might find you already have the gear you need. That's thanks to DLNA.

DLNA stands for Digital Living Network Alliance. It's a set of standards built into many network-connected electronics. DLNA makes it easy for various gadgets to communicate and do just this kind of thing. There is a certification system, so DLNA-compatible electronics will list it as a feature in the manual.

Any DLNA gadget should be able to receive streaming media from your server. That includes many TVs, Blu-ray players and audio receivers.

That's enough to get you started on your media-streaming project. Have fun!

To the People of Kentucky
 Honorable Steven L. Beshear, Governor
 Lori H. Flanery, Secretary
 Finance and Administration Cabinet
 Honorable John Osborne, Lawrence County Judge/Executive
 Members of the Lawrence County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Lawrence County, Kentucky, as of and for the year ended June 30, 2012, which collectively comprise the County's basic financial statements, as listed in the table of contents. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Lawrence County Fiscal Court. Our responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for Fiscal Court Audits issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinions.

As described in Note 1, Lawrence County, Kentucky, prepares its financial statements in accordance with the modified cash basis, which is a comprehensive basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

In our opinion the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of Lawrence County, Kentucky, as of June 30, 2012, and the respective changes in financial position, thereof for the year then ended in conformity with the basis of accounting described in Note 1.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming opinions on the financial statements that collectively comprise Lawrence County, Kentucky's basic financial statements as a whole. The combining fund financial statements and budgetary comparison information are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information is the responsibility of management and was derived from and relates directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements. The combining fund financial statements have been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and certain additional procedures, including comparing and reconciling such information directly to the underlying accounting and other records used to prepare the financial statements or to the financial statements themselves, and other additional procedures in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. In our opinion, the combining fund financial statements are fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements as a whole. The budgetary comparison information has not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, accordingly, we do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on it.

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated October 30, 2012 on our consideration of Lawrence County, Kentucky's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and should be considered in assessing the results of our audit.

Based on the results of our audit, we present the accompanying comment and recommendation included herein, which discusses the following report comment:

2012-01 The Fiscal Court Should Improve Internal Control Procedures

Respectfully submitted,

 Teddy Michael Prater CPA, PLLC

APPLICABLE

RATE

1. When energy is generated and sold to the Company from the ecoPower biomass facility, an additional charge equal to the product of the kWh of sales and a biomass adjustment factor (A) shall be made, where "A", calculated to the nearest 0.0001 mill per kilowatt-hour, is defined as set forth below.

Biomass Adjustment Factor (A) = (R*Pm)/Sm

In the above formulas "R" is the rate for the current calendar year approved by this commission in the REPA between ecoPower and Kentucky Power Company, "P" is the amount of kwh purchased by Kentucky Power Company in the current (m) period, and "S" is the kWh sales in the current (m) period, all defined below.

2. Rate (R) shall be the dollar per MWh as defined in the REPA between ecoPower and Kentucky Power Company, including any applicable escalation factor as defined in the REPA.

3. Produced energy (P) shall be the MWh produced and sold to Kentucky Power Company.

4. Sales (S) shall be all kWh sold, excluding intersystem sales. Utility used energy shall not be excluded in the determination of sales (S).

5. The monthly biomass energy rider shall be filed with the Commission ten (10) days before it is scheduled to go into effect, along with all the necessary supporting data to justify the amount of the adjustment, which shall include data, and information as may be required by the Commission.

6. Copies of all documents required to be filed with the Commission shall be open and made available for public inspection at the office of the Public Service Commission pursuant to the provisions of KRS61.870 to 61.884

PROPOSED RATE IMPACT

Tariff B.E.R. is a new tariff and there are no present rates. The proposed rates will be calculated on a kWh basis in accordance with Biomass Adjustment Factor described above.

If approved as filed, and if charges under Tariff B.E.R. were to be collected beginning January 1, 2014 (which they will not), the Company's proposed Tariff B.E.R. would result in a proposed annual increase in electric revenues per customer class, based on current revenues for the twelve month period ending March 31, 2013, as follows:

Customer Classification	Current Revenue	Revenue Increase with Tariff B.E.R.	Proposed Revenue with Tariff B.E.R.	Percent Change

SL	$1,222,039	$62,978	$1,285,017	5.15%

The average monthly bill for each customer class to which the proposed electric rates will apply will increase, based on current revenues for the twelve month period ending March 31, 2013, approximately as follows:

Customer Classification	Average Customer Usage (kWh)	Average Customer Demand (kW)	Current Average Billing	Proposed Average Billing	Average Billing Change	Average Percent Change
RS	1,374		$119.69	$130.08	$10.40	8.69%

Fort Gay Alumni group to host tourney at Eagle Ridge

LOUISA — The Fort Gay High School Alumni Association will host the Joe Damron Memorial Golf Tournament Friday, Aug. 30, at Eagle Ridge Golf Course at Yatesville Lake State Park near Louisa.

The alumni association has been hosting an annual golf tournament since 2000. The tournament was known as the Fort Gay High School Memorial Scholarship Open until this year, when it was renamed in honor of Larry "Joe" Damron, Class of 1956, who directed the event for 12 years. Damron died May 4.

"Joe Damron played a major role in making this annual event a huge success," said Richard Plymale, chairman of the FGHS Alumni Association. "He epitomized the generosity and voluntary spirit of our alumni, whose support of the golf tournament that he loved so much continues to help students with unmet financial needs go to college."

The annual tournament is the principal source of revenue for the Fort Gay High School Memorial Scholarship Program, an endowment established by the Marshall University Foundation and funded by the FGHS Alumni Association.

Each year, a graduating senior at Tolsia High School in Fort Gay is awarded a four-year academic scholarship to Marshall University. The program has funded over 40 scholarships since 1999, and this year's award winner will share $12,000 for the 2013-14 school year with three previous Tolsia graduates.

The best ball tournament begins at 9 a.m. and is open to the public. Golfers should arrive early to register. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. The entry fee is $50 per person

Brogan Conley named Liston Award recipient for MSC

PIKEVILLE — University of Pikeville women's basketball student-athlete Brogan Conley received the 2013 Emil S. Liston Award for the Mid-South Conference, officials from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) announced prior to awarding the national honor.

The award is named after Liston, the founder of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball (NAIB) and the first executive secretary of the NAIA. The award is annually presented to a junior men's and women's basketball player who has shown athletic and scholastic achievement.

In order to be nominated by their institution, a student-athlete must have achieved junior academic status and have an overall grade-point average of at least 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

Conley started 27 games for the Bears during the 2012-13 season, averaging 10.1 points and 5.4 rebounds per game, while shooting over 35 percent from behind the 3-point line.

The NAIA selects a national winner of the Liston Award from all the conference nominees who receives a $1,000 scholarship. This year's female winner was Samantha Kleinsasser of Northwestern College (Iowa).

SC Golf Team fundraisers successful

INEZ — Sheldon Clark golf coaches Ronnie and Debbie Evans say they are "extremely pleased" with the fundraisers that have recently been held.

The golf parents and coaches collected donations from various businesses in Martin, Johnson, Floyd, Boyd, and Lawrence counties prior to these tournaments. The donated money and gift cards were used to help run both fundraising events.

The golf team held a golf tournament at Paintsville Golf Course May 19. Prizes were given for the longest drive and closest to the pin on two par threes. The longest drive went to Jason Werferstette, and closest to the pin went to Eddie Fitch and Brandon Lafferty. The team winners were as follows: 1st place, Garfield Horn, Austin Horn, Brandon Lafferty and Brad Lafferty; 2nd place, Joe Collier, Brandon Collier, Jason Fitch, and Jason Wenferstette; and 3rd place, Eddie Fitch, Logan Fitch, Greg Fraley and Mackenzie Fraley.

The golf team's second fundraiser was a fishing tournament on Yatesville Lake Saturday, July 13. With great weather, 53 boat entries, and a total of 101 fishermen participating, players, parents and coaches of the SCHS Golf Team were "extremely pleased," the coaches said. The big fish of the day was caught by John Hunt and Kelly Allen in boat # 41, weighing in at 5.05 pounds. Each boat donated $10 to the big fish pot. This money was split between the winners and the golf team, allowing each to receive $265. The winners of the fishing tournament were as follows: 1st place, receiving $1500, was Gary Varney and Kirby Thacker in boat # 49, weighing in five fish for a total of 14.10 pounds.; 2nd place, receiving $700, was Scott and Mark Crank in boat #29, weighing in five fish for a total of 11.90 pounds.; 3rd place, receiving $400, was a father and son team, Rick and Ricky Brown in boat # 22, weighing in five fish for a total of 11.70 pounds.; 4th place, receiving $250, went to Tim Shafer and Greg Lewis in boat # 38, weighing in four fish with a total of 10.25 pounds.; and 5th place, receiving $130, went to Greg Spaulding and David Porter in boat # 4, weighing in three fish for a total of 9.56 pounds. Total cash and prize payout for this fishing event was over $4,000.

The Sheldon Clark Golf Team could not have held these fund raisers without the "generous support of the community," the coaches said. T-shirts for the fishing tournament were donated by Grayson Law Office and Burke's Body Shop. Food served at both events was donated by Bob's BBQ from StoneCrest Golf Course.

Businesses contributing various amounts or gift cards for these fund raisers were Logan Corporation, Dr. Sharon Neely, Dr. Jason Evans, Dr. Melissa Fletcher, Dr. Lon Lafferty, Dr. Brandi Collins, Dr. Kevin Gauze, Dr. Charles Sword, Dr. Todd Maynard, Highlands Foundation, Inez and Warfield Shop Rite, John Kirk, Brian's Automotive, McDonald's, Inez Deposit Bank, Paintsville Wal Mart, Pink Dogwood, Pepsi, R & J Building Supply, Mooney's Bait and Tackle, Richwood, Lousia Wal Mart, First Commonwealth Bank, Warfield Drug Store, Inez Drug, Lovely Auto, Scott Racing, Brandon, Marlena, Hope, and Will Lafferty, Inez and Warfield Dairy Bar, Martin County Judge's Office, Rite Aid, Big Blue Auto, Fast Lanes, Fast Change, Hutch Chevrolet, Jessie's Beauty Salon, Paula's Hair Design, The Medicine Shoppe, Field's Medical Supplies, Pizza Stop, Donnie Evans, John R. Triplet, Bilbo Davis, El Azul Grande, WSIP, Mandarin House, Inez Physical Therapy, Reisa's Hair Styling and Primitives, Debbie's Hair Design, Banks Miller, Inez Florist, Appalachian Wireless, Miss Ida's Tea Room, Mooney's Fried Chicken, Tres Hermonos Nunez, Mountain Citizen, Fazoli's, Lowe's, Toro Loco, Fiesta Place, Milano Cicina, Michelle's Hair Design, Mane Attractions, Jude's Fruit and Produce Stand, Little Caesars, Ponderosa, Hometown Pharmacy, K Mart, The Tackle Box, Borders Sporting Goods, and Yatesville Bait and Tackle Shop.

The coaches thanked the Martin County Bass Club for the loan of its scales, the Louisa Bass Club for the loan of its fish release boat and Nathan Harless for his "tireless effort" to make the fishing tournament "a great success, even though he has no child on the golf team." The coaches also gave a "special thanks to all the golfers and fishermen who came out and supported the SCHS Golf Team by their participation in these events."

The coaches said these fundraisers will make it possible to run a "first class golf program."

Johnson Central picked to win Class 4A, District 8

PAINTSVILLE — Johnson Central has been labeled as the preseason favorite in Class 4A, District 8.

The Golden Eagles return several key players, including offensive leaders Zach Gound (QB), Daymion Belcher (RB), Jordan Young (RB) and Dalton Adkins (WR).

Johnson Central ended the 2012 season 9-3, falling in the second round of the Class 4A State Playoffs.

The Golden Eagles, under the guidance of veteran head coach Jim Matney, edged Ashland 22-21 last season in a game that decided the district champion.

Perennial district powerhouse Johnson Central excelled offensively throughout last season. Belcher managed to rush for more than 1,000 yards during his sophomore season.

Johnson Central is ranked ahead of Ashland (9-3), Rowan County (4-7), Boyd County (5-6) and Greenup County (0-10).

Preseason Class 4A, District 8 Player of the Year Quinton Baker is back to lead the Tomcats. Baker, the son of former University of Kentucky standout Al Baker, paced Ashland during his freshman season. The younger Baker, prior to suffering an injury, rushed for 932 yards.

Rowan County and Boyd County are expected to battle for the third-place spot in Class 4A, District 8. The Vikings beat Boyd County when the two teams met in 2012.

New head coach John Gilliam is preparing to guide the Boyd County football program following a lengthy tenure as an assistant coach on the Morehead State University football team's coaching staff. His son, Austin, is a senior lineman for the Rowan County football team.

Greenup County exited the 2012 season winless.

Johnson Central is scheduled to host Holy Trinity, Ontario Canada on Aug. 30. Kickoff for the Johnson Central-Holy Trinity game is set for 7:30 p.m.

Hutchinson to serve as President of FCS ADA

MOREHEAD — Morehead State University director of athletics Brian Hutchinson has been appointed president of the Football Championship Subdivision Athletics Directors Association (FCS ADA) for 2013-14.

A Louisa native, Hutchinson will lead the organization as it seeks to enhance all aspects of FCS football. He served as first vice-president in 2012-13 and has been in the group's officer rotation for the past three years.

"Our association continues to be at the forefront of FCS initiatives and accomplishments, and I look forward to continuing the momentum that (Past President) Ron Strollo (of Youngstown State) built during the past year," Hutchinson said. The FCS, formerly Division

I-AA, has been in existence since 1978 with the name change prior to the 2006 season. The FCS playoffs are expanding to 24 teams in 2013.

Hutchinson also serves on the NCAA Division I Football Championship Committee and NCAA Football Issues Committee. Among its duties, the Football Championship Committee selects the field and bracket for the FCS playoffs.

"It's an honor to represent Morehead State and the Pioneer Football League on these committees," Hutchinson added. "I'm looking forward to working with some of the nation's top FCS athletic administrators."

Hutchinson has served as MSU's director of athletics since 2004. He previously served on several NCAA committees, including the Division I Recruiting and Personnel Issues. He has also served as chair of the Ohio Valley Conference Board of Directors of Athletics.
